

RAPE

Planned Parenthood aborts over 250,000 babies in the womb every year — more than 7,000 in Western Washington alone. Some of these abortions are performed on girls as young as 13, even 11 years old. Depending on the age of the boy/man involved, most states, including our own, view pregnancy in minor girls as sufficient cause to presume that a criminal act of statutory rape has been committed.

Failing to report rape to the proper authorities protects the identity of a child predator and it is illegal. Yet it appears Planned Parenthood frequently refuses to report these cases to authorities, even when the male involved is an adult or a member of the girl's family.

Abortion is such an ugly business, the only way to keep it “legal” is to keep it hidden. That's why Planned Parenthood would rather risk legal action than to report rapists who violate girls so young they may not fully comprehend the double tragedy — that their virginity has been taken from them — and that their baby is about to be killed.

What can YOU do to stop them?

KitsapHumanLife.org

A non-profit affiliate of Human Life of WA
PO Box 715, Poulsbo, WA 98370

For source information on statistics and other information used in this advertisement, visit www.KitsapHumanLife.org

SUPPORT HUMAN LIFE — Get More Life-Minded Information at www.KitsapHumanLife.org — DONATE TODAY!